The driver, later identified as Maria Eugenia Franco-Garcia, was determined to be illegally present in the United States. Osorio, a citizen of Mexico, stated that he made his smuggling arrangements and was to pay approximately $1,600 USD to be crossed into the United States. Osorio stated that he was taken to the riverbank, where he met up with other subjects before crossing the Rio Grande River on a raft. Osorio stated that the smugglers instructed them to walk a specific path and were told that a red pickup truck would pick them up. Osorio stated that when the red pickup truck arrived, he boarded the bed of the truck because there was no space inside the vehicle.

Ramirez stated that he, along with five (5) or six (6) other subjects, crossed the Rio Grande River on a raft.
